

SENATORS VOTE TO CUT TAX ON SMALL INCOMES

Minimum on Which Surtax is Charged Raised to Six Thousand; Tax Rates Reduced One Percent

TREASURY STANDS TO LOSE 18 MILLION BY CHANGES

Revision of House Bill Nearly Complete for Reporting to Senate Wednesday

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Under an amendment to the house tax bill adopted Saturday by the senate finance committee, hotels would be required to pay a tax of ten per cent on the amount in excess of $5 charged to transients for single rooms and on the amount in excess of $8 charged for double rooms.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Revision of the house tax bill, preparatory to reporting it to the senate next Wednesday, was virtually completed late Friday afternoon after the adoption during the day of numerous amendments.

Important among the changes made Friday was the adoption of an amendment revising the surtax rates by which those below the maximum of 32 per cent fixed in both house and senate bills were changed, some raised and some lowered.

The surtax will now begin with 1 per cent on incomes from $6,000 to $8,000, instead of from $7,000 to $8,000, as under the present law. On incomes up to $20,000 the rate in each bracket is reduced 1 per cent. On incomes from $20,000 to $24,000 the rate in each bracket is increased 1 per cent. The rates are then left as under present law up to incomes exceeding $40,000, where the maximum uniform rate of 32 per cent will apply.

Treasury to Lose $18,000,000

The federal treasury will lose $18,000,000 annually by these changes, it is estimated. The committee also revised the so-called luxury tax which the house bill levied as a substitute for the "luxury taxes" of section 904 of the present law. The amendment levies a tax of 5 per cent on the following articles in excess of the price given:

Carpets, $1 per square yard; rugs, $6 per square yard; valises, traveling bags, suitcases, hat boxes and fitted trunks, $20 each; trunks, $25 each; umbrellas, pocket-books, soap and hand bags, $5 each; umbrellas, $5 each; fans, $1 each.

Smoking jackets, bathrobes, etc., taxed in the house bill, are not mentioned. The house bill levies the 5 per cent tax on the same articles at somewhat lower prices, but the tax will apply on the whole selling price, if sold at prices in excess of the figures given. Under the senate bill the tax would apply only on excess.

Tax on Office Furniture

The senate committee, however, approved a tax of 5 per cent on the whole price of office furniture and fixtures made from imported woods.

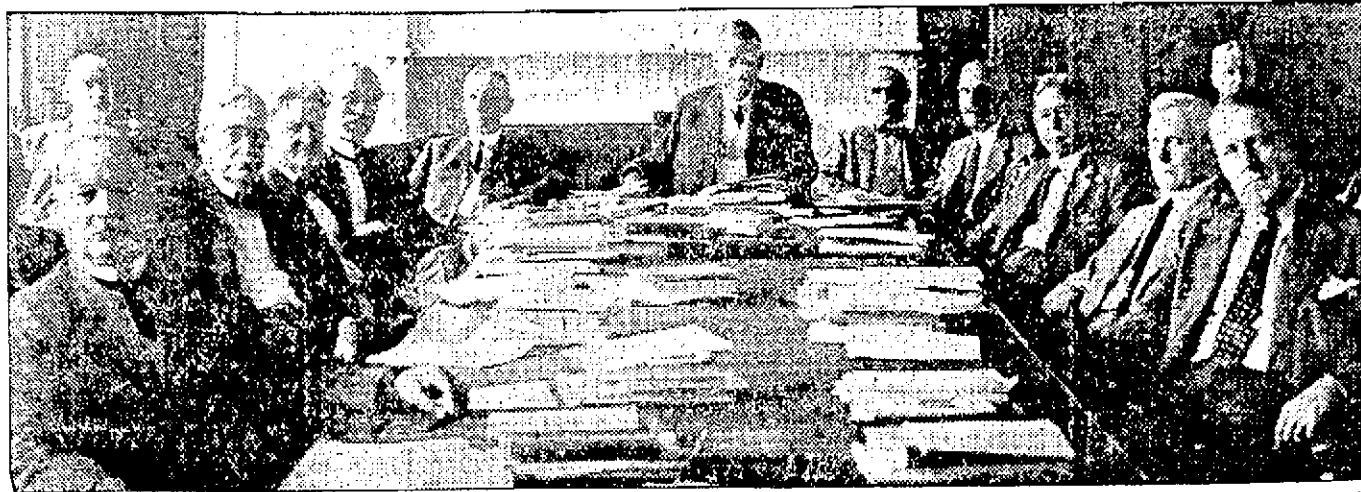

Its previous action levying a 2 per cent tax on proprietary medicines was rescinded and medicines left free.

It reduced from 10 to 7 1/2 cents per gallon the tax on fountain drink syrups.

The house sections relating to capital gains and losses were approved except that it was amended to make

ARBUCKLE TO REMAIN IN JAIL TILL TRIAL ON MURDER CHARGE

State Determines to Push Murder Charge Against "Fatty" for Death of Actress

COMEDIAN ARRAIGNED TODAY ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Ask Continuance Till More Serious Charge is Disposed of

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.—The arraignment of Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle in the court of Superior Judge Louderback on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, was continued Saturday until Monday, September 20.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Comedian Roscoe Arbuckle was cast Saturday for a new court scene in the tragedy of Virginia Rappe, modern picture actress, who died, according to accusers of Arbuckle, following a drinking orgy in the actor's apartment in a San Francisco hotel and as a result of mistreatment by her host.

Arbuckle was to be arraigned upon an indictment charging manslaughter, returned by the grand jury. But this arraignment is more formal, it was said, and District Attorney Matthew Brady was scheduled to ask a continuance of the manslaughter case until action has been taken on the charges of first degree murder pending against Arbuckle in connection with Miss Rappe's death.

Push Murder Charge

The district attorney had announced the murder charge will be pushed and it will be left to a jury to decide whether Arbuckle shall be convicted of first degree murder, second degree murder manslaughter, or shall be turned free. There also was another alternative, which was that if the police court at the preliminary examination failed to hold the comedian to answer to the superior court on charge of murder the state then would be forced to go to trial with the manslaughter indictment.

Crowds long before court opened attempted again to gain places of vantage about the courtroom where Arbuckle was to be arraigned, that they might view the film star. Arbuckle since his arrest has shown disinclination to face these curious folk.

Severals of letters and telegrams continued to arrive at the jail for Arbuckle and in such number he cannot answer them it was said.

Must Stay in Jail

Pressing of the murder charge means Arbuckle must remain in jail for some time to come. Dismissal of the murder charge and trial on the manslaughter indictment would have meant quick liberty on bail for the accused actor.

Bail on the manslaughter charge had been fixed at $5,000 and attorneys for Arbuckle had put up the cash in anticipation of action by the district attorney favoring trial on the lesser charge. Arbuckle had hoped to be free on this charge Saturday to start for his home at Los Angeles.

IRISH PROTEST BREAKING OFF OF NEGOTIATIONS IN MESSAGE TO LLOYD GEORGE

MEANS RECOGNITION OF IRISH REPUBLIC SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

THE text of Lloyd George's communication to De Valera follows:

"Sir: I have received the communication which you telegraphed me last night. It would be idle to say that a conference in which we had already met your delegates as representatives of an independent and sovereign state would be a conference 'without prejudice.' To receive them as such would constitute a formal and official recognition of Ireland's severance from the king's dominions. It would indeed entitle you, if you thought fit, to make a treaty of amity with the king, but it would equally entitle you to make no treaty at all, to break off the conference with us at any point, and by the right which we ourselves had already recognized to negotiate a union of Ireland with a foreign power.

"It would also entitle you, if you insisted upon another appeal to force, to claim from foreign powers, by our implicit admission, the rights of law, full belligerents against the king, for we dealt with you as a sovereign and independent state we should have no right to complain of other powers following our example.

"These would be the consequences of receiving your delegates as the representatives of an independent state. We are prepared, in the words of my letter of September 7 to discuss with you 'how the association of Ireland with the community of nations known as the British empire can best be reconciled with Irish national aspirations.'"

"We cannot consent to any abandonment, however informal, of the principle of allegiance to the king upon which the whole fabric of the empire and every constitution within it are based.

"It is fatal to that principle that your delegates in the conference should be there as the representatives of an independent and sovereign state. While you insist on claiming that a conference between us is impossible, I am, yours faithfully,

William Hamman has filed suit in circuit court for a divorce from his wife, Maudie. He charges cruel and inhuman treatment and desertion. He specifically relates one instance where she hit him on the head with a shoe.

He also asserts she was of a quarrelsome nature. On April 19, last, she took their two children, girls aged 14 and 10 years old, and went to a sister's home in South Dakota. Hamman declared she has not returned nor does she give any intimation that she will return.

KNUTSON URGES ACTION TO AID UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION IN LA CROSSE

STATE OFFICERS RAID FIVE LOCAL DRINK EMPORIUMS

Flying Squadron of Nine Prohibition Agents Conduct Raid Unheralded

EVIDENCE IS STORED IN SHERIFF MILLER'S OFFICE

Wodzinski Arraigned on Charge of Destroying Evidence

NINE state prohibition officers traveling by automobile slipped into the city Friday afternoon with the result that Sheriff Miller's office is stacked with "evidence," alleged to have been taken by the officers from five local drink emporiums.

The following places were raided, according to information received from the police department: Louis Olson, Third and Jay streets; Louis Wodzinski, south Third street; Carl Kriesle, Eighth and Market streets; Joe Hahn, 1701 Ouelaska Avenue; and Matt Neuman, 1607 South Eighth street.

Wodzinski Arraigned

When the prohibition officers appeared in Wodzinski's place, the latter is alleged to have grabbed a bottle, said to have contained liquor and emptied it before the agents could stop him. Wodzinski was arrested and held in the city lock-up all night. Saturday morning he was arraigned before County Judge Brindley, on a charge of destroying evidence. He pleaded not guilty, was released on $500 bail and his hearing set for next Saturday.

District Attorney Reid was not in the city Friday or Saturday. The sheriff's office could furnish little details regarding the raid and the police did not seem to have many facts regarding the visit of the flying squadron of prohibition agents. The complaint against Wodzinski was made by a prohibition agent.

Work of State Agents

The raids were made by state agents, the local authorities not being called on for any assistance. In fact, both police and the sheriff knew nothing of the raids until the agents appeared with the evidence and also Wodzinski.

It was said that the evidence taken from the places visited in the raid Friday was stored in the sheriff's office at the county jail. The amount of evidence taken from the several places visited is not known.

HAY FEVER VICTIMS OF MIDWEST ATTEND DULUTH CONVENTION

DULUTH, Minn.—Men, women and children, sufferers from hay fever from Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Minnesota, attended the annual meeting of the National Hay Fever association, just closed here, J. J. Fitzgerald, Omaha, was elected president; Carl Halverson, Minneapolis, vice president, and W. H. Drummond, Madison, Wis., secretary.

Resolutions were adopted to fight objectionable weeds; to encourage legislation for the destruction of these weeds and to offer every assistance to fellow sufferers.

Mr. Drummond said the ailment, was becoming more serious each year and national aid was imperative in combating the weed evil.

It was estimated 1,000 sufferers from hay fever visited Duluth each year.

HID SAVINGS UNDER MATTRESS; CHILDREN FIND AND BURN THEM

KENOSHA, Wis.—The savings from years of hard work went up in smoke for Alex Nedwecky, a Kenosha man, on Tuesday afternoon, when his three children found his money, $2,500 in bills of small denominations, hidden away in a handkerchief in his "mattress bank," and after playing with it a little while, threw it into the kitchen stove to see it burn. The mother arrived just in time to see the last flickering of the flames that had destroyed the money. She scraped out the ashes but could only get a teaspoonful of charred corners of bills to show to her husband and the police. These will be sent to Washington in an attempt to redeem some of the money.

Dedwecky had just closed negotiations for the purchase of a farm jointly with his brother-in-law, Julian Krupinsky, and had returned to his home to get the money to make the payments on the farm when he learned of his loss.

OUTLINES THE PROGRESS IN OTHER CITIES

Industrial Commissioner Tells of Methods in Milwaukee and Racine to Combat Unemployment

SURVEY OF SITUATION HERE IS RECOMMENDED BY KNUTSON

Except for Improvement in Few Lines Industrial Situation Remains Unchanged

THE need of immediate action on the part of employers, employees and others interested in the welfare of the people of La Crosse to take steps that either will prevent unemployment among workers this winter or at least relieve it was urged by R. G. Knutson, member of the Wisconsin state industrial commission, at a meeting held Friday night in Yeoman hall under the auspices of the Trades and Labor council.

Other speakers were Congressman Joseph Beck of Virgo, who told of legislation before congress in the past six months, and Mayor Bentley who outlined the present unemployment situation to politicians and unfulfilled promises of prosperity made by national leaders in politics and business after the war. Joseph J. Verchota, president of the Trades and Labor council, was chairman of the meeting.

In beginning his talk Mr. Knutson explained that he "would have to do this best he could without preparation," as he had expected to address the Trades and Labor council on the subject of unemployment rather than an audience expecting to hear a general discussion.

What Other Cities are Doing

Mr. Knutson told of the efforts made by Milwaukee and Racine, where the unemployment situation is characterized as the most acute in the state, to solve the problem of the man out of work. He said that while the methods used by those two cities might not be 100 per cent perfect in their application to the situation in La Crosse, yet something along similar lines might be worked out here.

Mr. Knutson also declared that he had received letters from various employers in La Crosse asking his assistance in suggesting ways in which to meet the unemployment situation and that he would confer with La Crosse employers and make a survey of the situation in an endeavor, with the aid of employers to reach a solution.

Most Employers Co-operating

"The great majority of employers in Wisconsin are co-operating with the state industrial commission in enforcing the laws which come under the commission's scope of activities," said Mr. Knutson in his remarks about the functions of the commission and some of his experiences since becoming a member of the commission. "I believe in giving every man a chance, if the circumstances warrant it. If the extreme penalties are inflicted in all cases brought to the attention of the commission, you naturally would expect the employer to turn against the laws. But if the employer who does not deliberately disobey the laws is shown his error in a helpful way then his assistance and co-operation in the enforcement of laws regulating employee and employer in the state is assured."

Cities Come to Aid

"In Milwaukee there are 32,000 out of work and in Racine, the largest industrial center outside of Milwaukee, there are 9,000. Milwaukee has put forth sincere efforts to cope with the situation. A conference of city and state officials and employers was held, a committee of fifteen was appointed to survey the situation and make recommendations as to what should be done. This committee made a survey and reported to the conference. As a result the city started work on several public buildings, a program of street repaving was laid out, the street railway company was induced to repair its tracks and the paving between the tracks, work was started on several bridges and employment was given to several thousands of men."

"A group of employers got together, subscribed for $300,000 worth of stock in a home building corporation. The city bought $300,000 in stock and 200 homes have been started in the city. They will be sold to working men at prices they can afford and on a payment plan they can easily meet. In that way some relief in the housing situation was afforded. Milwaukee

It is believed by his wife that Lemarche became despondent over the thought of having attempted to take his own life several months ago when the extreme heat caused temporary insanity.

MOLASSES ON STICK IS USED TO DETECT WATER IN GASOLINE

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Little dabs of cheap molasses on plain pine sticks in the hands of sixty-one oil inspectors in Minnesota have saved users of gasoline thousands of dollars during the past year, according to State Oil Inspector Nilsson. Incidentally, this simple test for discovering water in gasoline has gone out from Minnesota to a dozen other states.

On the theory that water is heavier than gasoline, and always sinks to the bottom, Mr. Nilsson devised the simple test a year ago. A stick dipped in cheap molasses glides through gasoline without showing any effect on the molasses. But when water is encountered the molasses comes off the stick. When the stick is withdrawn the exact amount of water in the bottom of the tank is clearly revealed.

La Crosse Folks at University

Everything is set for the biggest enrollment in the history of the university. Between 8,000 and 8,500 students are expected. State street in the past forty-eight hours has changed from a deserted street to one thronging with life. It has all the appearance of a big city main street again and within another forty-eight hours will be a perfect jam.

The places of amusement and refreshment are already beginning to reap their annual golden harvest. The Guide Shop started its season with a dance to the music of a lively jazz orchestra. Thompson's are holding a highly dance.

The machinery of registration is already in good working order and is getting in trim by registering the students who have come back early. There has been no arranging of classes as yet. This feature is being postponed until the date of official registration, Monday and Tuesday of next week.

Among the early arrivals are George Bunge, who has reported for football practice, promising much in that line; Thomas Stavrum, Irwin Blatter, Melvin Pierce, Carroll Robb, Louis Probst and Oscar Nippe.

George Krentz has been engaged in office work at the state capitol through the summer.

Many former Normal school students are here, some having been employed throughout the summer. In this group are Ralph Emmell of Blair, Wis., former football star at Normal; Ivan Swanson of La Crosse, another former football man at Normal; Jean Rolfe of La Farge, and Robert Erickson.

Mario Christian and Mrs. George Krentz are teaching in the Madison grade schools. A. H. Mitchell, former manual training instructor in the La Crosse schools, and Otto Endres are also back on the teaching staff of the Madison schools.

John B. Gay, known to all members of the old Third Wisconsin infantry as battalion sergeant major, is engaged in the insurance business, selling Northwestern Mutual life insurance to university students and faculty.

Instructions to Students

To those who are entering university for the first time this fall it might be well for them to know how to proceed. If you haven't already secured a room make arrangements at once by going to the Y. W. C. A. or the Y. M. C. A. or to the dean of women or of men and secure lists of rooms. Three to four dollars for a double room and four to six dollars for a single room is the prevailing price that is being asked. There are still plenty of rooms within a ten block radius of the university. Don't be afraid of a little walk, it will do you good and keep you in trim for your school work. Good meals may be had at the many cafeterias for a very reasonable sum. Remember that you have friends here who are willing and anxious to help you in any way they can. Get their addresses before coming and don't be afraid to look them up and use them.

Come financially prepared to pay at least two weeks' room rent in advance, registration fees of fifteen dollars, library deposit of two dollars and books and other special equipment of from fifty to seventy dollars, depending upon the course, and for meals up to the first semester are not so great in the case of books and other equipment.

Not Negro Songs
Most people fancy in a vague way that Stephen Foster's songs are negro or were inspired by the negro music. But "Old Folks at Home" and the other Foster melodies are about as unlike negro music as anything could possibly be. That their words are often in negro dialect and express negro sentiments is simply a historic accident due to the fact that in Foster's day the negro mistress, real or "worked," were the only means of bringing music before the public.

THE LIGHT OF THE BODY

THE light of the body is the eye; therefore when the eye is single, the whole body also is full of light; but when the eye is evil, the body also is full of darkness. Take heed therefore that the light which is in thee be not darkness.—St. Luke 11: 34, 35.

It Looks Real

Germany continues to give evidence of sincere repentance. Dispatches say that Chancellor Wirth is planning to raise a billion and a half gold marks for reparations payments by plastering a mortgage on all of Germany's private industrial plants, and another on the big estates of the land-holding Junkers. Not only this, from a government official in a cabinet largely social-democratic in composition, but the further fact that his policy is supported by the financial and banking interests of the German republic, indicate that a genuine effort is being made to fulfill the obligations incurred by the nation in the war, and to repair the damage she inflicted as much as possible. Militarists in other countries are loth to let go of the bogey of German militarism. It is a convenient specter to raise for the purpose of frightening taxes into big armies and navies useful in imperialistic schemes of all sorts. But it is becoming increasingly apparent that the flight of the kaiser was not a ruse, but a genuine revolution, in spirit as well as form. Efforts of the pan-Germans to stir up the old "Ich und Gott" idea are born dead. The assassination of Erzberger, instead of touching off popular resentment against the government has increased popular confidence in the new regime and driven sympathy away from the monarchists. Remaining Hohenzollerns are buying tickets for Doorn while the going is still good. Germany is still a formidable rival, commercially, and will become more formidable with increasing rapidity. But there are no present signs that she wants to try another military adventure. That lesson is learned. And if, under all her handicaps, she can give the allies a race in the commercial field, she deserves not censure but credit for her pluck and skill. Brandishing the sword won't help any in meeting this kind of German rivalry. We can only hold our own by following Germany's example of plenty of hard work with head and hands.

Out of It

BOLIVIA had threatened to withdraw from the League of Nations in case the League insisted upon attempting to adjudicate the quarrel over the Bolivia-Chile treaty at the instance of Chile. Under Article X the League might have proceeded against Bolivia by boycott or with armed forces to compel compliance. Just where would this have encountered the Monroe doctrine? Of course the answer depends upon what the Monroe Doctrine means. European troops have been permitted to land in South America to collect a debt, but views of the doctrine which appeared to find currency during the debate on the League of Nations covenant in the United States senate might readily reach European authority attempting to dictate and enforce international relationships in South America. The point of dispute has passed for the moment by the agreement by which Bolivia and Chile finally have agreed to submit their dispute to the Assembly of the League. It is improbable that our state department will enter an objection to the voluntary arbitration of a South American dispute by an agency domiciled in Europe in which most South American states hold membership. But should either Bolivia or Chile default compliance with whatever decree is uttered by the assembly, Article X would again come into play as the enforcing clause, and again an issue would be possible. It was easy enough for Washington to dictate to Panama as to keeping the peace. We regarded that as our affair, as though the Monroe Doctrine were a deed of sovereign authority over South America executed to Uncle Sam, rather than a declaration of Uncle Sam that Europe might not encroach upon the sovereignty of South American states. But we might regard French or British troops enforcing in South America the decrees of an authority which we had declined to accept for ourselves as quite another thing. Even were Washington inclined to wink at the proceeding, it is almost certain that the first act of a South American state which had appealed to arms from a decision of the League would be to ask this government to invoke the Monroe Doctrine against the invasion of its territory or the blockade of its coast. Such an incident would not come under the Monroe Doctrine as historically reiterated. A European nation has been permitted to enforce a contract defaulted by a South American republic. South American states might properly be held to their contract with the League of Nations. But in this League of Nations matter we've turned up our nose and stuck out our toes, and should we find our feet trampled upon it would be natural for us to stick out our chest. Then the League might stick out its tongue, which would be a signal for the international schoolboys to "peel their coats."

World affairs are in flux. Existing laws are inadequate. Fifteen times since the war world or continental conferences have been necessary to take care of matters involving world peace and stability. Forty-eight nations are in the League, the total excepting only Russia, Turkey, Mexico and the United States. We refused to come in and help run things. Big as we are, we look arrogant and somewhat stupid when trying to run them from the outside. How much better off we'd be, for instance, if we were represented in the Assembly of the League and thus were a party to whatever decision is reached in the quarrel between Bolivia and Chile!

Through

NOT another good man gone wrong, another had man found-out, seems to be the case of "Fatty" Arbuckle. It matters not what courts and juries may do, this slap-stick comedian will be known henceforth as a brute and a libertine. As the fiancée of his victim put it, he didn't know how to get a kick out of life without playing the beast. Should his defense attempt to blacken the character of the girl whose death is charged to him it will avail him only the additional infamy of slander or betrayal. Such men are luxuries which moviedom can not afford, and at no matter what cost of completed films and potential box office receipts, it must purge itself of them. Arbuckle will be small loss. He won a laugh because he was grotesque, and because his was a nimble corpulence. But his "stuff" was always inclined to coarseness—smear and vulgar. Custard pie or a sex leer were the tools of his "art." He "got by," and might have continued to do so, because he made his abnormality amusing to those to whom the unusual has an appeal. But the abnormality which cropped out in the St. Francis hotel will not "get a laugh." "Fatty" Arbuckle is through.

In Ye Olden Times

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

The La Crosse Stone company has been awarded the contract for paving Madison street. The kind of paving to be put on has not been definitely decided upon by the board of public works but when the material has been chosen the work will begin immediately. Four new buildings are being erected north of the grandstand and consist of double rows of pens with a corridor down the middle. They will be used as sheep and hog exhibition buildings. The children at the Home of the Friendless were this afternoon guests of Manager Frank Koppeler at the Majestic theatre. The treat for the children was arranged for them to see the four Piccoli Midgots now playing there. A further advance in the wholesale price of eggs took place this morning, fresh eggs being quoted at 20c.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Parents of pupils attending school in the Third district are complaining vigorously of the condition of the building. Many refuse to send their children to school until the work on the building is completed. The heating plant is not yet finished and if cooler weather sets in studies will have to be dropped until the heating system is ready. The Wisconsin Business University has decided to organize a football team and already the consent of F. J. Toland has been given. Charles Beyschlag is attending the forty-ninth annual convention of the American Pharmaceutical association in St. Louis. Among the subjects before this convention is the revision of the United States pharmacopoeia. The session of United States court scheduled to take place at the federal building Thursday has been postponed a few days out of respect to President McKinley who will be laid to rest on that day. A branch of the Marine Beneficial association is to be established in La Crosse. A number of engineers and a score of pilots and other officers of rail boats reside in this city. Only fifteen members are needed before an organization can be formed.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

It is reported that John Grams will shortly sell out his boiler manufacturing business to a Chicago man. On request of Mayor F. A. Copeland, Mr. Stolitz, the architect, has prepared a new building ordinance, which is designed to regulate the erection of buildings in the fire limits. The ordinance contains ninety-four sections and provides for a commissioner of buildings. This is the only officer but a provision is made for the appointment of assistants if necessary. Charles Lierse, the well known dairyman of Mormon Coulee will deliver an address on dairying at the Taylor County fair to be held at Medford, September twenty-five. Mrs. Robert Muir of New York City, a resident of La Crosse thirteen years ago, is here visiting her sister, Mrs. W. A. Roosevelt. The hay crop all over La Crosse valley is heavy this year.

A CHRONICLE OF COURTSHIPS

BY MARTHA MCCULLOCH-WILLIAMS

"Marty? No? Why, don't you know I was born odd?" Miss Prudence Ray chuckled, letting her knitting fall gently into her lap. "Mighty lucky, too—men persons are all right, handy to have in the house, and great when it comes to doing real hard work. But to my thinking it's lots easier to hire 'em than to be always honey-in' 'em up, makin' 'em believe Andrew Jackson wasn't so much bigger'n they are, or that old Father Noah had hardly their foresight. Get on with 'em? Sure! Wouldn't have 'em about if I couldn't. Yes, I have had marryin' chances, and I don't say they weren't good ones—some of 'em. But somehow if I liked a man's looks his disposition didn't suit—if he had more money'n I did, he wanted mine all the harder; if he had less, he was main sure to be teddy about it—I think I ought to make him high-cakaloom over everything. And that's what I shan't ever do. Pap taught me too well for that."

Jimmy Griggs giggled at the end of this exordium. He had indeed giggled intermittently throughout it. "But you know you're loavesome—dead loavesome, Miss Prue," he said. "That's why you let me come and run on yards and yards about my girl. Next thing you know to loavesome about it. Makes me think of the song:

"Shovel and togs, to each other belongs,
And the kettle sings songs of family gloze,
While alone wid yer cup, like a hermit ye sup,
Och hone! Widow Macree!"

"I know Mr. Tom Jamieson would love to sing it to you—it would fit you," Prudence Macree said. "You tight down, maybe reckon so?" Miss Prue drawled, giggling in her turn, and threatening Jimmy with her ball of blue yarn. "I wonder how how much you'd bet on it?" "Sik stockings against the blue socks you're knittin'," Jimmy said gamely. Miss Prue shook her head. "I wouldn't do—no touch," she said. "How'd we ever find out who ever square with you, Lena McLane? She has looked at me right down cross-eyed ever since you told me my pound cake was the best ever—she wouldn't even try to make as good."

"Lena couldn't be jealous with you married to Mr. Tom," Jimmy returned. "That's all you know about women folks," Miss Prue flung back at him. "They'd be jealous even of a mosquito that buzzed round you if they're born that way. Lord he praised I wasn't born so. Or maybe it's because I've got such a conceit of myself. Anybody wants to think less of me or more of some other body—do it and welcome. I'll sit tight sayin' to myself they lose as much as I do; maybe a little more."

"Can't you somehow make Lena look at things that way?" Jimmy asked. "She's the very best ever; but my, how she acts up, if I don't walk the chalk every day and Sunday too."

"When didn't you last?" Miss Prue queried, chuckling. She had known all along Jimmy had come for some special reason. "Why, over at the Morrison play," Jimmy expanded. "Mudge Gray snatched me out—like the plague she is, kissed me before she'd set down. And the right, you know, whistled and out me off in the run round. If Lena'd been there and seen how it all was I don't believe she'd really minded, but told the way she was, she boiled over when she saw me—tried to throw my ring in the fire and run away when I put it back on her finger and wouldn't let it come off."

"Then, don't you worry, she'll be like a May mornin' next time," Miss Prue consoled. "If she isn't I ought not to tell tales—but just you up an' ask her did she ever know Harvey Clay?" "Goodness! What for?" Jimmy demanded. Miss Prue pursed her lips. "Them that ask no questions save chances of hearin' lies," she said. "You do as I tell you, but don't name names unless you have to."

"I don't know anything to Lena's hurt—nobody does—they can't," Jimmy protested loyally. "Tight up, are—but life's mighty full of curiosities, Terns and twists nobody can count on—nor out," Miss Prue returned emphatically. "No charge for advice, boy—only you come and tell me how it works out and all about it."

"I can't go it blind this way," Jimmy protested. "Why must I ask her about this Harvey Clay?" "If you will have it, because she was engaged to him—come in a month of marryin' him when she was seventeen, and he flew the coop!" Jimmy sprang up, his teeth clenched. "Where is he? I'll kill him!" he all but shouted. Miss Prue caught his arm, saying: "Ye can't! He's good and dead. Left Lena for a rich widow, who had a limousine and a roadster, and both of 'em broke the necks three months after the weddin'."

"I see," said Lena's sort of a widow. Jimmy sighed. Miss Prue half chuckled. "Call it that if ye will—but not to her. There was another fellow, one of the trustees, at that school she taught, seemed to have a fine chance of consolatin' her, until she found out he ate onions on the sly while he courted her. 'Well, I will be jiggered!' from Jimmy. 'But no wonder—with her such a peach.' " "Resides, she's got fakin' ways," said Miss Prue. "My sister wrote me she was real epidemic up in the Bush Creek neighborhood; she taught there two terms, you know. The clerk rider cast sheep's eyes at her; and the doctor—his name is Towse—quarrelled with his sweetest. Lena's sort of a jealous after all that experience; but you're no babe and suck-

It Was Risky Business, But, Says Our Steeplejack Friend, It Paid Good Money

The very edge of the roof of an eighteen story skyscraper is no place for a person with "nerves." John A. Prescott, steeplejack, says so, and I believed him as I cautiously worked my way up to the edge of that building—one of Chicago's highest—and looked down at the sidewalks many feet below and saw the crowds of people looking like dwarfs, scurrying this way and that.

It was about fifteen years ago that Mr. Prescott began steeplejacking. At that time he went from town to town, painting a church steeple here, a smokestack there, and a flag pole somewhere else. Every year he "made" Rockford, Ill. One year he arrived in Rockford with a low supply of funds. He decided to waste no time finding a job. It happened there was an eighty-five foot smokestack in town that needed painting. Mr. Prescott was engaged.

"After buying my ropes and blocks," Mr. Prescott told me, "I had just about sixty cents in my pocket. And sure ropes and blocks they were. The blocks were in the ten cent class, frail and weak, and the ropes were little more than heavy fish cord. But I needed the money so I foolishly started in with this outfit."

He rigged his ropes and pulley up to the towering stack, climbed into the little board-and-rope swing in which the "jack" sits while he plies his trade, and slowly pulled himself up to the top of the big pipe.

In order that you may better appreciate Mr. Prescott's position up there with nothing to keep him from falling to a mighty hard roof except some weak, thin ropes I'm going to take a few words to tell you who may not know, how it feels to be up at the top of a big stack.

It is thrilling. If you look straight up you see nothing but clear, blue sky. Your stomach feels queer—empty. You wish you were down on solid earth. If you look down it doesn't take long to realize what would happen should you slip out of the seat. Perhaps you see a hole in the street far below. It looks like a big ant. People look squat and funny. Again, if you aren't accustomed to this sort of thing, you'll give a whole package of chewing gum and something more, maybe, to be down. And if you look around over the flat roofs of surrounding skyscrapers—well, the whole sensation is dizzy, almost sickening.

Anyhow, Mr. Prescott, swinging on his fish-line outfit, slowly worked his way around and down the big stack. Finally the job was finished. His ropes and blocks had held—much to his surprise, considering how frail and sore from holding to the new line.

"And believe me, if I have anything to say about it," he said, "I'll never be so foolish as to tackle a job with that kind of an outfit again. There isn't so much danger with good ropes—thick ones—but you can't tell when something might happen."

Looking at the thin, swaying, tooth-pick-like poles on roofs of the surrounding buildings and thought of having to climb them to paint the big balls on top, and agreed there was a possibility of something happening.

"But what did you do before you became a steeplejack?" says I.

"Oh, I was a high-diver with a carnival company, but one night I took a bad fall so I quit."

"And then became a steeplejack—something more or less?"

Mr. Prescott grinned.

—George R. Cleveland.

ONE-REEL YARNS

THE TUG BOAT'S BIG DAY

All day long the tug boat puffed up and down the river, dragging behind it a great, ugly coal barges to the docks at the steel mills. All day long it was fed by grimy-faced men in faded, crumpled overalls, who grew angry because it couldn't go faster.

The tug boat used to look wistfully at the trim yachts that glided by so gracefully, at the gleaming sail boats that dipped in the breeze, and at the proud motorboats that threw aside the spray. It sighed when it saw the men in white ducks and the ladies in light-colored frocks on the docks of the more fortunate boats. Especially on hot days it envied the gay little awning-covered steamers, while it chugged down the river under the blazing sun, wheezing painfully.

Its life was the same, day after day. In the evening, when it lay in its moorings, rocked by the kindly waves, it wished a board in its side would crack, so that the water rushing in would sink it, and that would be the end.

Then, one morning, instead of being started to work at its usual early hour, it was left in the moorings while the crew scrubbed it as it had never been scrubbed before. Many, many boats were moving all about. Their whistles made an endless din. The tug boat heard the men who were working on it saying something about "the exposition." It wondered what it was all about.

As soon as it had been cleaned up, the men brought garlands of flowers and yards of crepe paper streamers with which they decorated the startled little boat. It looked at its reflection in the water and was so proud it thought its boiler would burst.

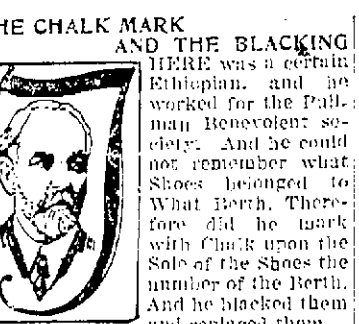

Along came a man in a little motorboat, and the boat head him call to the crew through his megaphone. "Get your boat in line in the front of the procession. Here's a sign for it." He threw over a big canvas sign on which was printed, "Industrial Exposition. This boat is One Reason for Our City's Growth."

And soon the old boat was chugging proudly at head of a water parade.

I've found out why the pool is always so calm and peaceful. It's all due to the Taspoilee.

Parables of Safed the Sage

THE CHALK MARK AND THE BLACKING
THERE was a certain Ethiopian, and he worked for the Philanthropic Society. And he could not remember what shoes belonged to what berth. Therefore did he mark with chalk upon the Sole of the Shoes the number of the Berth. And he blacked them and replaced them.

And there came a night when he had gathered the shoes, and he fell asleep before they were blacked. And he hastened, and he wiped the dust off them with a Rag, and he replaced them under the Berth. And the passengers tipped him just the same. For they beheld the chalk mark and accepted it as evidence that their shoes had been blacked.

And the Porter said, Behold I have made a great discovery. If people think their shoes have been blacked, they are blacked.

For he had been to College, and he knew the system of a celebrated German Philosopher whose name was Albrecht Ritschel.

And he said, This is a world of Value Judgments, and things are worth whatever they are accepted as being worth.

And he found that his chalk mark was worth a quarter, and the blacking was worth no more.

But he tried it once upon me, and I gave him another lesson in Philosophy.

But yourself, Jimmy boy! Didn't you come as near as the license once to marryin'?"

"Shucks! Don't go rakin' up that foolishness," from Jimmy. "It was all a play—with hard effort and egg-nog on the side. Folks do almost anything silly at Christmas; and the rest dazed me and Bossy Blaine to get married and Squire Jackson up and married me and I was a married man and a license and we came in a square's jump of being tied hand and fast without knowin' it. Trot Thomas stopped it just in time."

"Tell Lena—after the weddin'!" Miss Prue consoled. "An experience gained beforehand would have had you both high and dry. If you told the truth, neither'd believe the other; if you lied you'd get found out in less'n no time. No you lot things lie as they fell, except Harvey Clay—you can't do much harm with a dead man. I hope you won't have to name him—now. But, remember, he may come in handy after a while."

"Now, how about you and Mr. Tom?" Jimmy demanded with a smile.

Miss Prue shook her head again, but not decidedly. "He does look blue and lost—and them two boys are rumble-wild," she said. "His hand matches with mine, too, like the tracks were made to run together. I doubt if one of us can show a dollar the other can't match; and though I've got a heap more hair on my head than he has on his, he makes up for it in teeth. Not one lost, while I have to eat Judgment, so honors do look after New Year. Trot, I'll think it over after New Year. Then, if you and Lena find you can trot in double harness, maybe I'll think about it some more."

"I'll go tell Mr. Tom," said Jimmy. A rising, Miss Prue said "Scat!" to him, but wholly without cancer, and smiled as he dashed away.

And I said, Oh, then shrewd and crafty Ethiopian, there are men who have gotten rich by the sale of Mining Stocks whose value was based upon this system, and there are others who have gained great renown as philosophers who work the same racket, but in the long run, it is nothing to write home about.

The world will little note nor long remember the whiteness of thy chalk upon the soles of their shoes; they will want to judge thee by the blackness of the blacking upon the residue thereof.

And I said, Then hast the number of my berth, and I also have thy number. It is not 23; for I will not report thee for thy neglect, but speak to thee kindly. Black thou thy shoes, and do it honestly, or else betake thee to the hay and omit the chalk mark.

And I considered how many men there be who fall into the same system. They discover some method whereby their work shall appear to have been done, or their value rendered, and then go to sleep with the calm assurance that their absent treatment will not be discovered.

But there cometh a time when the establishment is laying off help, and then are those men on the wrong side of the Employment Gate.

For what I say unto the Ethiopian that do I say to all men, that a white chalk mark upon the sole of the shoe is no permanent or satisfactory substitute for the black mark of the blacking brush where the blacking doth begin. And men's sins do find them out.

DON'T WANT SYMPATHY

As a big twin-six pulled up alongside a rail fence in one of the poorest counties in the state, the driver asked the farmer who was plowing the field: "Am I on the right road to the county seat?"

The farmer had no more than answered "Yes," when there came another question from one of the seven passengers: "My good man, are you able to make a living off land like this?"

As the farmer wiped the sweat off his brow, he replied: "Yes, and now before you start to pity me, I just want to tell you don't waste your sympathy on me. There is a fellow on the next farm who needs it. He owns 240 acres just like this, and I own only 100 acres."—Indianapolis News.

"Bonanza" Signifies Good Fortune

"Bonanza" is a Spanish word meaning "fair wealth," or "favoring wind." It is used in mining districts to signify an abundance of precious metal or rich ore. The winning of Comstock Lode, a wonderful gold and silver mine in Nevada which yielded 340 million dollars worth of ore in thirty years, first used "bonanza" in this way. The word is now also used to signify any good fortune or successful enterprise.

A Good Record

An approximate distance of 32,613 miles was covered with only three slight crashes, and one person slightly injured, in the work of civil government flying, under direction of the Canadian air board, during 1920. A total of 18,671 machine flights were made, with 6,505 machine hours flown.—Indianapolis News.

Benefit Performance

For some time the benign old gentleman sat watching the notice in his paper attempts to land a fish. Finally the angle was reduced to his last worm and still no catch.

"Cheer up, son," said the old gentleman. "They're biting well for you at any rate."

"No, they ain't," retorted the other aggrievedly. "They're bitin' for their own personal benefit, that's what they are."—American Legion Weekly.

Truth Will Triumph

A merchant had advertised for a boy. Late in the afternoon, a red-headed, freckle-faced, blue-eyed, honest-looking lad applied for the job.

"Do you like work?" asked the merchant.

"No, sir!" replied the boy.

"Then you can have the job," replied the merchant. "You are the first boy who's been here today who didn't lie about it and say yes."—Washington Post.

Putten

In a country school the children were in the habit of using "putten" for put. The teacher tried to teach them better, and one day after a little boy had written a sentence on a blackboard she asked the children if they could find a mistake in it. "Yes," answered a pupil. "Where is it?" the teacher asked. "Why?" he answered. "He went and putten putten where he ought to putten put."

When Sign Language Failed

"I had never realized before what a terrible handicap it was to be deprived of the power of speech until recently," remarked Mr. Githers.

"What happened then?"

"I saw a deaf and dumb golf player top a ball three times running.—Ag-Herald.

Bitter

"You are acquainted with the plaintiff?" asked the lawyer as, a mere matter of form.

"No, sir," replied the unhappy defendant. "I merely lived with that woman seven years as her husband."

PLAN MORTGAGE ON ALL OF GERMANY TO MEET ALLIED DEBTS

Liens on Industrial and Farming Property Expected to Raise Billions of Marks

BONDS TO BE ISSUED BY THE GOVERNMENT AND SOLD ABROAD

Plan Expected to Strengthen Exchange Situation

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—A mortgage, it appears, on the vast private industrial properties of Germany is about to be issued by the German government to meet its obligations to the allies. This is expected to raise a billion and a half gold marks.

Next is expected to come a mortgage on the private farming property of Germany, prominent among it the possessions of the Junker class. No estimate is ventured of the billions of marks expected from this source.

Semi-Official Statement
A semi-official statement was issued today regarding the conference of Chancellor Weimar with the representatives of the banking and industrial organizations of the country. The statement says that the government is carrying out its financial policy. The industrial interests believe they can produce credits for about a billion and a half gold marks by using their foreign deposits and credits.

Bonds are to be issued on these properties and sold abroad.

The first result is expected to be a strengthening of exchange—now heavily against the mark. With the mark returned to fair value the government figures that it may be able to make its own way.

Kaiserists Flee to Doorn

DOORN, Sept. 16.—The strong feeling against the ultra-conservatives in Germany, which has manifested itself since the recent murder at Mauthausen, is believed here to be the cause of several members of the Hohenzollern family leaving Germany and coming to Doorn, where they are expected to remain with former Emperor William until they consider that conditions in Germany are favorable to their return.

The ex-emperor's daughter, formerly Princess Victoria Louise, now the duchess of Brunswick, accompanied by the duke and their children, arrived here yesterday. With them also was former Prince Adalbert, third son of the ex-emperor. Former Prince Blücher and Oscar are expected here shortly, it is understood.

BRINGING UP FATHER

MARRIAGE OF GOTHAM CLERIC AND DIVORCEE FORBIDDEN BY BISHOP

Episcopal Clergymen Forbidden to Perform Ceremony for Dr. Grant and Mrs. Lydig

NEW YORK.—Bishop Manning has ruled that no clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal church may perform a marriage ceremony for the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension, and his fiancée, Mrs. Rita De Acosta Lydig, a wealthy parishioner, who has been divorced twice, the New York Times says. It has learned from a reliable source.

Before the engagement was announced Dr. Grant communicated his purpose to the bishop and was informed that the proposed marriage was contrary to the canons of the church and the bishop has not receded from this position. It is declared that Dr. Grant's vestments are not intended to interfere with his matrimonial plans, and he is the only one who has taken up the question of its ecclesiastical regularity with the bishop.

Mrs. Lydig obtained a divorce from W. E. H. Stokes, whom she married when she was 19 years old, and later from Major Philip M. Lydig. One of the divorces was on the grounds of incompatibility. The cause in the other suit would not prevent remarriage of the innocent party, according to church laws.

ITALY HAS NEW FUEL TO REDUCE COST OF OPERATING MOTORS

New Gas Invented by Italian Will Cut Expense by One-half Is Claim

ROME.—Through the invention of a gas motor generating a mixture composed of alcohol and a sulphur-carbon combination, the cost of operating automobiles and all internal combustion motors can be reduced one-half, according to claims of Engineer Sestini, who after exhaustive experiments under the auspices of the Italian government has just completed a report on the possibilities of the new combustion.

The use of the new gas generating mixture pre-supposes the employment of a special kind of carburetor, which Sestini has evolved. The experiments have been in progress over a period of almost three years, and were begun with a special view of lessening the cost of automobile fuel.

The new fuel has a density greater than that of gasoline in the ratio of 925 to 730. It is urged that the adoption of the fuel will considerably lessen the importations of foreign gasoline. Practically all the raw materials necessary for the new fuel can be found in Italy.

HIT EMPLOYERS WHO ADVERTISE FOR HELP OUTSIDE THE STATE

State Board to Publish Names of Those Who Discriminate
Against Home Labor

DEMANDS CAN BE MET THROUGH
STATE EMPLOYMENT OFFICES

No Reason Why Men Should be Brought from Outside

MADISON, Wis.—While thousands of Wisconsin citizens are out of employment, some employers still are advertising outside of the state for help. The industrial commission reports that public statement. It declares that "there is no good reason why any Wisconsin employer should go out of this state for workers," and announces that hereafter it will publish the names of those who are discriminating against the unemployed here.

The industrial commission has received a number of complaints that Wisconsin employers are advertising for help outside of the state when there are thousands out of work and unable to find employment in Wisconsin. The statement brings out "investigations made by the commission have shown that some of these complaints are well founded."

In other cases men have been brought in from outside of Wisconsin through private employment agencies. All of the eleven free public offices have registrations of large numbers of men who desire employment, yet some employers have given orders to agencies outside of the state to supply them with help.

A road contractor who did this was severely scolded by Municipal Judge Burgess at Racine, in a trial for a serious offense of one of the men who was thus reported from another state by a private agency.

"Employers who patronize private employment agencies in Chicago, Minneapolis and elsewhere, have not only been bringing in men from outside of the state, but these workmen must pay to get their jobs, when all demands of employers can be met by the free employment offices which the state maintains."

Why Jack Was Disqualified
Ella—"Rumor has it that you are going to marry Jack."
Ella—"Then rumor is lying. I shouldn't dream of marrying him. He can't ride, can't shoot, can't drive a car and can't play tennis."

Ella—"Yes, but would you want a husband that you had to keep in an aquarium?"—London Tit-Bits.

CINCINNATI—Dunohue held Boston scoreless after the first inning and Cincinnati won, 5 to 1. Both Oeschger and McQuillan were hit in timely fashion and two passes given by Oeschger in the first inning were both converted into runs. Score:

In The MOVIES

AT THE THEATERS TODAY

La Crosse—Fiske O'Hara. Rivoli—William DeMille production, "What Every Woman Knows." Paramount—Mildred Harris in "Habit." Majestic—Mary Miles Minter in "Her Winning Way." Strand—Barbara Castleton in "The Branding Iron." Fox News.

"WHAT EVERY WOMAN KNOWS"—RIVOLI

William DeMille has been very successful in the delicate task of transferring one of Barrie's most elusive comedies, "What Every Woman Knows," from the stage to the screen. The result is to be seen with feelings of delight at the Rivoli theater this week.

The whimsy of the production, its touches of pathos and its keen character studies as projected by Mr. DeMille make it one of the finest of the season, just as the play in which Marie Adams scored was one of the finest of the stage.

Lois Wilson, in the part of Maggie Wylie, has captured the elusive traits of the young Scotchwoman with fine appreciation. Maggie Wylie is probably the finest role Miss Wilson has enacted. Conrad Nagel, in the part of John Shand, also contributes an excellent portrait, showing a greater range of shading than he has in previous productions.

"HABIT"—MAJESTIC

Probably the most familiar face in America, aside from the President's is that of William Lawrence, who plays opposite Mildred Harris in "Habit" now at the Majestic. Lawrence was formerly a commercial artist's model, and most periodicals and billboards in the country have carried pictures of him advertising popular drinks, razors, collars, etc.

VODVIL AND PICTURES AT STRAND THEATER SUNDAY

Two acts of high class vodvil will be presented at the Strand Sunday. In addition to the feature picture program, Benson and Johnson, in "The Girl and the Goat," offer an unusual comedy act, and Spencer Sisters and Wilbur will entertain with a singing and dancing number. Bert Lytell will appear in the feature picture, the Metro Classic, "A Message From Mars." Barbara Castleton in "The Branding Iron," will be shown for the last time Saturday.

MARY MILES MINTER—CASINO

Young ladies who are weary of any of their suitors and yet hesitate to hurt the youth's tender feelings, may get a helpful idea from the heroine of "Her Winning Way," at the Casino today.

The heroine of this breezy comedy has one suitor too many, and to rid herself of his attentions with the minimum pain for him she lets herself be kidnapped in his presence. Her pretensions and then tells what she thinks of him. As it was her subconscious mind speaking for her, the young man couldn't very well be offended at her confession of her true feeling for him. Mary Miles Minter, the star of "Her Winning Way," impersonates a breezy and resourceful newspaper girl in this photoplay, with

Clayton Glass playing opposite her. As the book-reviewer in an up-to-date city daily who is sent to the apartment of a shy young novelist to get an interview, she has a role offering exceptional opportunities to her devotees. Whether she is the maid, or domestic, or the reporter climbing along a coping to get to her victim's apartment she wins your heart and your applause.

Fundamental Business Principles

From a purely coldblooded business point of view, honesty is the best policy. To treat the other man as you would have him treat you is an equally fundamental business policy. This does not mean that you should surrender your rights or neglect to avail yourself of your opportunities. It simply means that in the game of business, the same rules of sportsmanship should prevail as in a boxing bout, in a match of golf, or in a football game.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

BADGER UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT ATHEIST IS CHARGE OF BRYAN

"Bryan Crazy and Merely Seeking Notoriety" is Answer of Birge

MADISON, Wis.—Charging E. A. Birge of the University of Wisconsin with fostering the teachings of atheism and ridiculing the belief in God, the divinity of Jesus Christ, William Jennings Bryan brought upon himself a hot pot from the heat of the Badger state institution.

"Bryan is crazy," President Birge said. "He is seeking notoriety and I refuse to engage in a newspaper argument with him. No one pays any attention to what Bryan says anyhow."

Calls on Grandparents, Too

The atheism charge by Bryan was made in an address opening the Citizens League and Entertainment course at Madison. He charged President Birge with making a joke of the religious convictions of the fathers and mothers of the students in at least one of his addresses.

"I think that the mothers and fathers and the grandmothers and grandfathers who believe in God and believe that Jesus Christ was more than an unusual man ought to know when the president of the university is teaching and fostering," he said.

Science All Wrong, He Says

He further claimed that such teachings as philosophy, evolution, modern science, the Darwinian theory, and similar teachings were tending to un-dermine all the good work of the earlier in-fluence brought to bear upon the stu-dents in their homes before entering the university. "The great need of this country is to get back to a strong be-lief in God," said Birge.

"And the years spent under per-sonal influence at the university will undo the work of the Christian home and the Christian church, and set at naught the work good Christian men-ators do with their little ones at their knees."
